The ... Apr 27, 2024 · "Content" refers to the substance or material within a single entity, often used in singular form, while "contents" refers to the individual elements or items within a collection, used in plural. The distinction is rather subtle; if you consider the contents of a document to be separate pieces of information, you should use "contents" (which is usually the case with a letter). Contents are the chapters, subjects, or articles within a written work. You might need to scroll through a list of the entire contents of your computer's hard drive if you're searching for a missing document.
